

Italy Stands Up and Cheers

A great throng of shouting Italians packed the Piazza Venezia, Rome, to help celebrate the American Fourth of July.

© Cav. Nichola Morano Pisculli.

A procession through the streets of Milan on the third anniversary of Italy's entry into the Great War. There is no doubt where the enthusiastic Milanese stand!

French Pictorial.

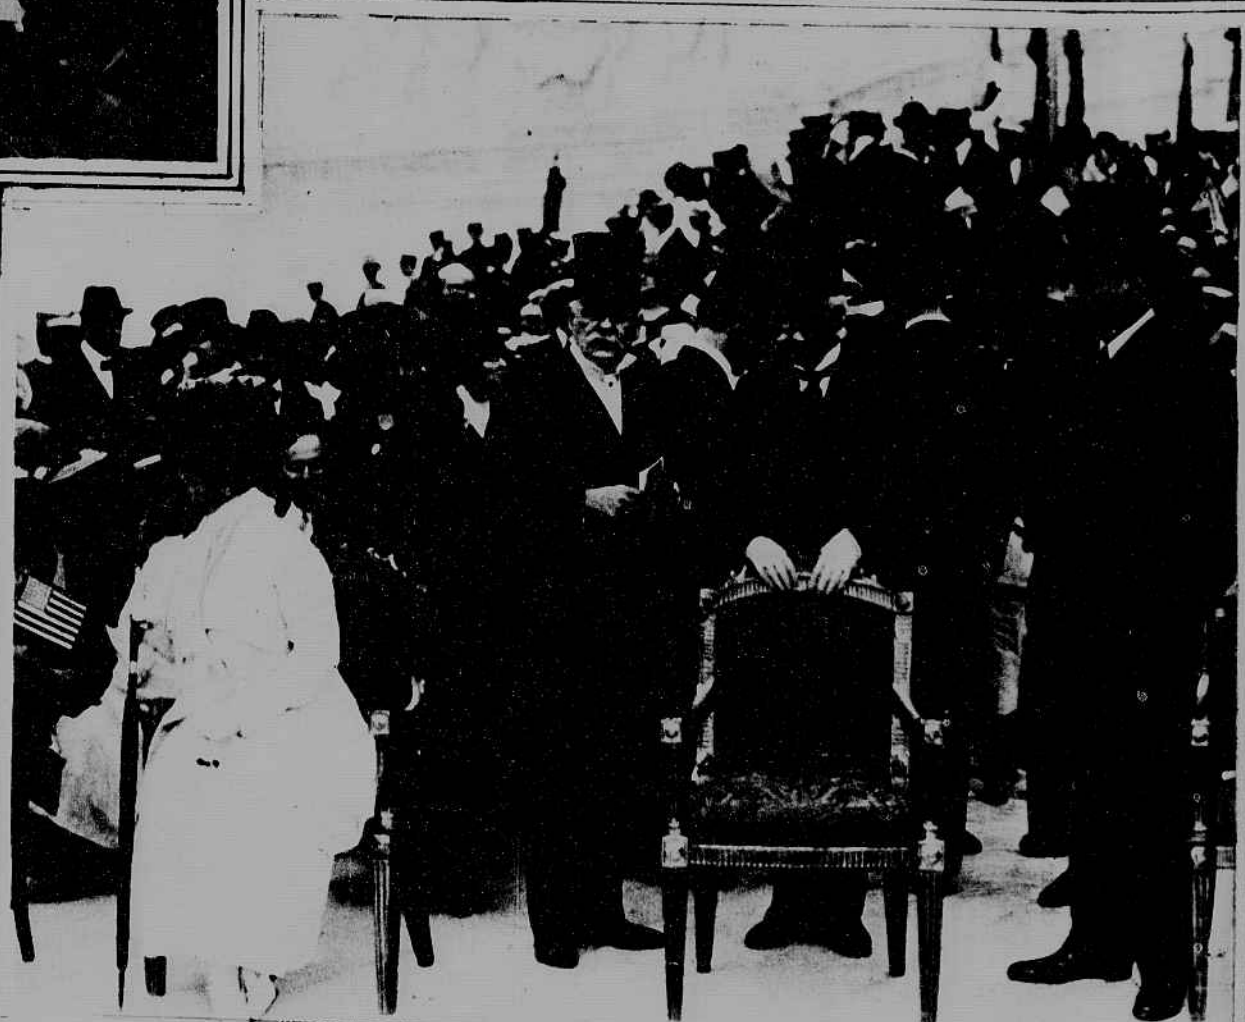

And there were Sammys on hand to help Rome cheer on American Independence Day.

© Cav. Nichola Morano Pisculli.

Roman crowds with banners and flags making it known how glad they are that Italy didn't stay out of the fight for civilization.

© Cav. Nichola Morano Pisculli.

The Fourth in Rome. Left to right: Mrs. Thomas Nelson Page, in white; Thomas Nelson Page, American Ambassador to Italy; the Right Hon. Sir Rennell Rodd, British Ambassador; and New York State Senator Salvatore A. Cotillo.

© Cav. Nichola Morano Pisculli.